

Research publications

Alzheimer's Society is dedicated to communicating dementia research in a clear and accessible way. We produce and contribute to a number of publications. This ensures that we keep scientists, health professionals and the public informed about our research programme and about the field of dementia research.

Research Newsletter

The monthly Research newsletter keeps readers up-to-date with details and progress reports from our research programme and the field of dementia research.

- Subscribe today and stay informed on Alzheimer's Society research.

E-journal

The Alzheimer's Society E-journal carries in-depth comment and analysis on individual research topics contributed by specialists in the field of dementia research with a shorter version of each article in lay language.

- The E-journal is available online.

Annual round-up

The Annual round-up summarises the year's achievements and activities including newly funded and completed research, news from the Research Network and comment from Director of Research, Professor Clive Ballard.

- The annual round-up is produced in September and is available for download.

Impact report

The impact report is produced each year as part of the ongoing evaluation of Alzheimer's Society research and the research programme.

The leaflet includes details of publications and research dissemination activity, as well as examples of how our research is building capacity and providing tangible progress within dementia research.

- The impact report is available for download.

Research information leaflets

Alzheimer's Society Research produce information leaflets that may be of interest.
