

Other ways you can help

Alzheimer's Society Research sometimes has individual projects that need involvement from members of the public, or activities within projects that need involvement and participation.

These are different from long-term ways to help and may require certain groups of people. Opportunities to help in this way will be varied, and sometimes there may not be any opportunities available.

Thank you for your interest in helping Alzheimer's Society Research.

Projects that need your involvement

- Priority Setting Partnership for future directions in dementia research.

This project will help us identify and prioritise the unanswered questions about dementia according to what's important to people with dementia, their carers, health and social care professionals and members of the community. This will ensure that future research addresses what is important to the whole community, not just researchers.
